

Farewell to the Cebuano Visayan language
it is about to die as a result of your indifference

Kaanugon sa pinulongang Cebuano

Spanish is the most beautiful language of Europe. In my own opinion I personally select the 1950s-60s-70s Cebuano as the most tasteful language in the history of the Philippines. Contemporarywise none would qualify today as a passable medium of communication, Cebuano itself moves closer each year to the graveyard of dead languages as not even in the province of Cebu can you count in the digits of one hand the rarest who've survived the hate and apathy campaign to get rid of the greatest the Philippines once had. The 1935 consti provisioned destruction of Cebuano and all other languages except one but older governments carried it out as nothing more than ceremonial gesture. The 1972 consti reversed the bias for Tagalogization but Marcos required a language for his national socialist dictatorship. The never to be amended 1987 consti pretends to be democratic but retains everything Marcos instituted for the supremacy of Manila and Tagalog. Filipino and Pinoy, proud to be slaves of Manila and Tagalog.

What is going on in the world today? The abortion industrial machine grinds out the same dozens of millions of dead babies each year worldwide at a time when birth rates are down to rates leading to human extinction. That Paul Ehrlich Population Bomb nonsense that inspired Marcos as well as the totalitarian "progressives" has long been debunked by fossil fuel advancements, multiples of agricultural growth and the plain fact population never really exploded, instead technology did. Humans in general today live better and longer lives than fifty or five hundred or five thousand years ago. But today we confront the uncertainties that depopulation and "Artificial Intelligence" potentially add to the existential threats that currently actually exist.

Take effort to recall how only until recently the bureaucrat agencies and Chinese-controlled establishments compelled the collection of your personal info by way of paper forms you were required to fill up for even the most meaningless transaction. They did this for almost two decades with the intent to data bank every exploitable information pertaining to you and all other Philippine residents that could be of interest to local gov, Imperial Manila and the China Communist Party. But all this was horrendously inefficient insofar as digitization to IT storage/retrieval infra would not even amount to a percentage of which how little would turn out to be retrievable gold? Google and the early spyware technology it pioneered and popularized in search/browser/OS eventually bandwagoned the nefarious players to the cliché known as paradigm shift. It became so much easier, they each came up with device applications that the individual is obligated by means of periodic or constant engagement to permit capture of personal info entered into or sensed out by the computing tool he's utilizing.

However this would also mean that the entity is in one day alone siphoning petabytes of data which is mostly junk. Note that your modern cellphone would likely choke if you now add even just a gigabyte (1 gb) to storage. Which is why A.I. that is wasting a quarter of the world's electricity is deployed to supposedly help them in activities that raise the power consumption of data centers and of your devices as well. Yet A.I. has proven to be crazy intelligence of an expanded search engine, when selection is mundane it is reliable but when you complicate, it will fabricate fake shit so at any point it could just be compiling distortions.

The question now is why is Cebuano going forward this path of death and same time you got ultimately pointless A.I. clouding our near future? Well, why else would a tech company suddenly bloat to a staggering three trillion dollar market value this mid-2025? Something that has no practical value can only be sustained for as long as you still have money to waste. The threat of death became a necessity if the fit among us is to survive and carry on the mission of humanity. Jesus saved us once and it should have been enough to validate it is up to us to rise up time and time again against dark forces.

China will steadily decline for the failure of resuscitating its population but sadly the Japanese and South Koreans are brisker on demographic suicide, as are all Europeans. To be content with substitute imaginary babies supplied by A.I. But the woke national socialists who exult abort will themselves become lesser while information technology will revert to serving humanity instead of enslaving it. As for Cebuano, in the moments prior to irreversible death perhaps one or two of its leaders would stand tall to prevent Tagalog from bringing Cebuano down alongside its own certain self-inflicted doom.

The celebration of Lapulapu

Ingratitude is denial that somebody did something good for you, case to point is how the Cebuano was taught to be ungrateful and to indulge in self-destructive self-deception. Nothing is factually known about Lapulapu other than a brief account in the 1521 Spanish circumnavigation expedition chronicle. No local or Asian sources exist and the Spanish records are reputed to be honest as humanly possible. Their interpreter also came from a derivative Austronesian line. It cannot be disputed that Magellan was requested by the indigenous sovereign Humabon to exterminate a threat occupying a small island nearby. That this was accepted by a visitor militarily depleted during his perilous voyage is an indication of goodwill to be established as the motive. To leave a solid investment before returning to Spain.

For near entirety of the time the Philippines has been a Tagalog republic, Lapulapu has been celebrated as a mighty gigantic hunk of a man who wielded Ifugao-styled weaponry and defeated the "enemy". How could all those grandiose details they present to date all possibly be true or realistic? You'd have to believe that Lapu was an indigenous warlord who organized, nurtured and trained for war-readiness several dozen indigenous warriors over many years in resource-poor Mactan islet. cursory economic analysis says crap all. Historical reflection will also illuminate the fact that at this time piracy of Japanese-alignment was waning in our area, prior to the Moros these Japanese pirates were the only ones who had temporary settlements. Third and final Spanish expedition has zero reference to the fiefdom of Lapu remaining there so you can infer with upright sensibility that unlike the Humabon-Tupas indigenes of Cebu, Lapu was a transient who moved elsewhere when the loot became moot. Conquest and ethnic apocalypse inflicted by other factors in Asia was to be our fate at that time, it is only because Magellan came that we retain a good part of our identity. It is him we owe.

In response to an aggressive cultural invader a local community will follow its tribalist instinct and come up with either a decisive counterattack or else a futile gesture. Cebu's response to Tagalog have essentially just been Sinulog festival street dancing and Bisrak, a 99% unlistenable musical parody of Pinoy Pop. Both these ongoing enterprises do zero to protect the language and culture of 25 million Cebuanos. The incursion of Tagalog invaders penetrates deeper and deeper. KWF-DepEd as always will be bent on converting our uneducated majority to some sort of mongrel pidgin garbage fusing Tagalog with English slang under the assumption that this is easily acceptable to the unthinking masses dulled by ABS-CBN and FB. Add InsikTikTok and neurally-perverted A.I.

Ang katuyoan sa nasionalismo mao ang paghinambugero. Ang tinuoray ug lintunganay nga Cebuano di hambugero busa ikahukman nato nga sayop ang nasionalismo. Sa bakak nagatubod ang nasionalismo sa Pinoy Tagalog.

Mga kapakyasan sa gobierno sukad sa 1972:

1. Naguba ang ekonomia, kanhi labing arangarang karon kinakabusan
2. Naguba ang defensa, dili kasukol sa Insik, Moros ug comunista
3. Corupto nga panginaiya sa gobierno dili ka makatarung sa bisan unsang legal nga paagi, gidungan niini pagkadunot ang atong katilingban ug cultura. Kon ngano nga bati ka, pasalamat ang bati nimong gobierno.

What will be good for Cebu? Same things that gonna be good for Philippines. A system that minimizes the entrance of officials who're in it for corruption opportunities or who're incompetents voted in by sellsouls asalumaykuming to populist celebrity. Even if you have supposedly good leaders it's nada, examples Gloria and Gwen. The first was elected on her way to becoming president after mimicking Nora Aunor but turned out to be a truly intelligent technocrat officeholder who started turning the country for the better yet the masses soured on her because they wanted a lessbrain peer. From afar Gwen appeared to be hardworking and resourceful but later in her brief Congress detour I saw her clearly to be low intel and the standard trapu painted by her detractors who gains in the scams of the bureaucrat-oligarch mafia including MCWD water and VECO electricity. It's one corrupt trapu after the other, this 2025, in 2028, in 2031, 2034 2037 2040 2043 2047 2050.....

The only path we can change it all is if we understand that there once was a time we were actually good enough and the reason we are this bad is that Marcos and Cory pretended we are better by changing into something we really should not be. PeenoyTagalog mediocrity losers feeding at the bottom.
